STOP CHASING THE JOB TITLE

BUILD YOUR OWN CAREER PATH

Our careers are too often led by the job titles that find us and we mould ourselves to them only to realise they don't tick all of our boxes. We are left craving a greater challenge and wondering what our 'y' is? Time to reverse the process and design your own skill portfolio and ensure your current role and the next role you consider plays to your strengths.

Finding your 'y', your true passion, will ignite the flame and give you the direction you have been searching for. Having direction and a clear 'y' will transform your performance both in and out of work. It increases your health and wellbeing, creating positivity that shines and is highly contagious to those around you. As Steve Jobs said, "People with passion can change the world for the better."

Amy will show you the tools to use in order to find your 'y' and build a skill portfolio that plays to your passion and strengths regardless of the industry or the job title. So prepare your 'y' for the workplace of the future!

Key takeaways:

- How to build your Skill Portfolio and really get to know you!
- Leveraging your Skill Portfolio to find your true passion
- Redesigning your career path for the workplace of the future.
